Si tratta della copia digitale di un libro che per generazioni è stato conservata negli scaffali di una biblioteca prima di essere digitalizzato da Google nell'ambito del progetto volto a rendere disponibili online i libri di tutto il mondo.

Ha sopravvissuto abbastanza per non essere più protetto dai diritti di copyright e diventare di pubblico dominio. Un libro di pubblico dominio è un libro che non è mai stato protetto dal copyright o i cui termini legali di copyright sono scaduti. La classificazione di un libro come di pubblico dominio può variare da paese a paese. I libri di pubblico dominio sono l'anello di congiunzione con il passato, rappresentano un patrimonio storico, culturale e di conoscenza spesso difficile da scoprire.

Commenti, note e altre annotazioni a margine presenti nel volume originale compariranno in questo file, come testimonianza del lungo viaggio percorso dal libro, dall'editore originale alla biblioteca, per giungere fino a te.

Linee guide per l'utilizzo

Google è orgoglioso di essere il partner delle biblioteche per digitalizzare i materiali di pubblico dominio e renderli universalmente disponibili. I libri di pubblico dominio appartengono al pubblico e noi ne siamo solamente i custodi. Tuttavia questo lavoro è oneroso, pertanto, per poter continuare ad offrire questo servizio abbiamo preso alcune iniziative per impedire l'utilizzo illecito da parte di soggetti commerciali, compresa l'imposizione di restrizioni sull'invio di query automatizzate.

PREFACE.

IT is probable, that the Sungskrita language was formerly the current medium of conversation among the Hindoos, especially in the north of India; and that it was gradually corrupted, by a number of local causes, so as to form the languages at present spoken in the various parts of Hindoosthan, and perhaps, those of some of the neighbouring countries. The existence of a language prior to the Sungskrita, called the Hindi, is exceedingly doubtful, and appears to be wholly unsupported by any historical evidence.

That the Sungskrita language should have been formed, and brought to its present perfection, by a number of learned men, without having ever been a colloquial medium of intercourse, is a circumstance so unexampled in every other part of the world, and at the same time so totally unsupported by historical testimony, that the admission of the idea argues no small degree of credulity. We can scarcely suppose, that a language so difficult of attainment, and understood at present by so very small a part of the inhabitants of India, should formerly have been cultivated to such a degree, as to have been the universal medium of learned intercourse, and that in which all books were written, whether they treated of the abstruse subjects of philosophy and science, or were the lighter productions of fancy:—but this must be admitted, if the Sungskrita was never employed as a colloquial language.

Were we to assert, that the Sungskrita language was never the medium of general intercourse, but was formed by an assembly of learned men, it might justly be asked, when did that assembly meet? By whom was it convoked? Was the language formed from previously existing languages as the ground-work, or was the whole an entirely new fabrication? If the first of these be asserted, we may ask, whether all the words in all the languages spoken throughout the whole extent of India, from the Indus to the mountains of Arakan, were admitted, and by what method a mass composed of such heterogeneous ingredients was reduced to such a form, as to be clearly derived from less than two thousand roots. If the latter of these positions be asserted, it may with equal propriety be enquired, What then is become of the languages which were colloquial throughout India before the Sungskrita was formed? Were they few or many? and how came it to pass, that they were from that time so universally discontinued that no vestige of their existence remains? for it is certain, that the present languages of India, especially those of the northern provinces, are almost wholly derived from the Sungskrita, that dialect of Hindoosthanee excepted which is spoken by the higher Moosulmans.

The four languages spoken in the south of India, viz. the Telinga, the Kurnata, the Tamul, and the Malayala, to which may be added the Cingalese, may perhaps form an exception to what has been advanced above; for though it is a fact, that the number of Sungskrita terms, and of words derived from the Sungskrita, employed in these languages, make a full half of them, yet we are totally at a loss to account for the origin of the other half. Some suppose these to have formed the ancient language of the Peninsula, and that the introduction of

Digitized by Google

Sungskrita terms is comparatively modern. This may be the case in those southern countries; but in the whole of those large countries which lie north of the twentieth degree of latitude, scarcely a vestige of such a language exists, and it is doubtful whether there be one word in a hundred which may not be fairly traced to the Sungskrita or the Arabic.

There are at least twenty languages spoken in the north of India, in which scarcely any words are to be found except those of Sungskrita origin. These are the languages of Kashmeera, of the Punjab, of Mooltan, and of Sindh; that of the country about the mouth of the Indus from Hidurabad to the sea, that of Kuchh, those of Goojurat, Kunkuna, Bikaneer, Oodaya-poora, Marawar, Bundulkund, Bruj, and Nepala, the Hindoosthanee, the language of Mugudha or South Bahar, the Mahratta language, and those of Assam, Bengal, and Ootkula, or Oorissa. To this it may be added, that a great number of words in the Pushtoo and Bilochee languages, and even in the Persian itself, are evidently Sungskrita. The idea therefore of the Sungskrita language having been a production of human art must be relinquished, unless some rational account can be given of the total oblivion of the ancient languages of all these countries, and the almost universal adoption of Sungskrita terms in their stead.

Most of the languages of India are copious, and, were they duly cultivated, would be found capable of being employed in every kind of composition with advantage: most of the elegancies of style, and delicate shades of meaning, may in their present state be expressed by them with great facility; and should literature become an object of more general pursuit in India, and the colloquial languages be more employed in different species of style and composition, the capacities of these languages would be developed, and the languages themselves carried to a degree of refinement of which we now have but a faint idea.

The Bengalee language, of which the following is a Dictionary, is almost entirely derived from the Sungskrita: considerable more than three-fourths of the words are pure Sungskrita, and those composing the greatest part of the remainder are so little corrupted, that their origin may be traced without difficulty. Words of Arabic or Persian origin bear a small proportion to the whole; and most of those, the origin of which appears doubtful, may be generally traced to a Sungskrita or an Arabic origin. A few Portuguese words, and a few English ones often so distorted as scarcely to be recognized, are now incorporated therewith, and may be admitted as forming a part of it.

Till of late, the Bengalee language was almost wholly neglected by Europeans, under the idea of its being a mere jargon, only used by the lower orders of people. Most of the vernacular languages of India still lie under the same neglect, from a supposition that the Hindoosthanee is the language universally prevailing, and that the language of the body of the inhabitants is to be considered as a vulgar corruption thereof, assuming an almost endless number of local varieties.

The fact is, that the Hindoosthanee, or, more properly, the Hindi language divides itself into two great branches, one of which is again variously modified by the local forms of pronunciation and termination used by the great body of the population in most of the provinces beyond Bengal which lie on the north side of the Ganges. This branch, which is almost entirely derived from the Sungskrita, ramifies and forms the languages of these different provinces which are denominated Hindoosthan proper. The other dialect, called the Oordoo, consists almost entirely of words of Arabic or Persian origin. It was engrafted by the Moosulman settlers in Hindoosthan on the original Hindi as its stock, and has, with a few exceptions, the same grammatical formation.

Digitized by Google

This is spoken by the higher classes of Moosulmans, and is not confined to any particular place; but is used by them in all parts of Hindoosthan, and with a greater or less mixture of Sungskrita terms by those Hindoos who are connected with them. In the large cities, where the Moosulman princes keep their courts, this dialect is most prevalent, but in places remote from courts and camps it is scarcely known.

However polished and elegant, therefore, the Oordoo dialect may be, it can scarcely be called the language of any country, and is very imperfectly understood even in Hindoosthan proper, beyond a certain class of society; while the Bruj, the Punjabee, the Mahratta, the Bengalee, and the other languages of India enumerated above, are current through large tracts of country, and are spoken and understood by the whole body of the inhabitants. These languages, though all derived from Sungskrita, differ from each other as much as most European languages which have a common origin.

The mistaken idea, that the Moosulman dialect of the Hindoosthanee was the most prevalent language in India, was probably the cause that formerly induced the greater number of those Europeans who came thither, to study it in preference to all others. Some acquired a good knowledge thereof; but it must be supposed that the greater number obtained only a very superficial acquaintance with it: with those every possible corruption passed as current, and laid the foundation of that undefinable jargon still spoken by many, which is equally unintelligible to natives and Europeans, except those natives, who, by serving Europeans, are habituated to every possible irregularity of speech, and by their own ignorance and confidence contribute still more to the confusion.

This imperfect knowledge of the Oordoo dialect being deemed sufficient for all ordinary purposes, the great body of Europeans were thereby led to despise the vernacular languages of the country, and in consequence to remain ignorant of them.

Since the institution of the College of Fort William, this prejudice has been gradually giving way. The Bengalee language has become an object of study, a good number of the Civil Servants of the Honourable Company, and many other persons resident in India, have made it the object of their attention, and not a few may be ranked among the number of good Bengalee Scholars.

Some persons are disposed to censure the study of the higher compositions, in the Bengalee and other Indian languages, under the idea of their not being understood by the common people, and inapplicable to the common concerns of life: and every possible corruption of words, every false pronunciation, and every violation of the rules of Grammar is, on this supposition, by some considered as lawful, and indeed necessary to intercourse with the bulk of the people.

It is readily admitted, that the common people in India, as well as in other countries, maintain intercourse with each other without employing many of those words which we find in studied compositions; the language of common conversation among people of the lower classes, is in every country circumscribed within narrow limits. The lower orders of people in India, it is confessed, pronounce many words in an incorrect manner, and sometimes use them in an improper sense; their language also abounds with local phrases, and allusions to things, which, though sufficiently obvious to them, are equally obscure to those who are unacquainted with their domestic customs, their mythology, and their current notions on religious and philosophical subjects. But this is the case in all other countries; there are, however, but few persons in any country of Europe who would form their language upon the model of that dialect which is spoken by ploughmen, menial servants, or labouring mechanics.

The common people in Bengal, however, though they speak a very circumscribed language, do not so frequently violate the rules of Grammar as might be imagined. They are, it is acknowledged, ignorant of many refined modes of expression; and, as may be expected, rustic in their conversation: but they appear to surpass many other nations in correctness.

It must be confessed, that their writing is shockingly incorrect, and the mis-spelling of words is often so glaring, as to make it almost impossible to determine what word the writer intended to use. The common Sirkars, (as they are called,) and the common tradesmen, sometimes through an affectation of knowledge, and more frequently through gross ignorance, have contributed their full share to this evil.

The number of books yet published in the language is very small, and they are mostly translations from the Sungskrita; no work has yet been published upon any one science, nor a treatise upon any particular subject. When literature and science become objects of pursuit in Bengal, and works on various subjects are published, (a period, the approach of which must be desired by every benevolent person,) many of these terms, which are now only known to the learned, will become more common, and perhaps the language will be enriched by many words borrowed from other tongues.

The want of a Dictionary of the Bengalee language has been long felt, especially by the students in the College of Fort William. Induced by this acknowledged want, and by the official situation which he holds in that College, and which indeed seemed to require it of him, the author of this work engaged therein, and now, after many delays, presents it to the public.

He has endeavoured to introduce every simple word used in the language, and all the compound terms which are in common use, or which are to be found in Bengalee works whether published or unpublished. He has availed himself of every advantage which the labours of others could afford him, particularly those of Dr. Gilchrist, Dr. Hunter, and Mr. Forster, and is happy to acknowledge the obligation under which he lies to these writers.

In general, he has avoided introducing the same word in different places, only because it is disfigured by a variety of spelling. In some instances, it was not easy to determine which of two modes of writing a word was to be preferred, when both were equally sanctioned by custom; and in such cases both modes are admitted as legitimate.

The etymology of words is given, except in a very few instances. It must, however, be freely acknowledged, that there are some cases in which it is extremely doubtful whether the one given be the true one; the progressively increasing cultivation of the language will probably remove many of these doubts, and in many instances rectify the mistakes which inseparably attend the first publication of a work of this nature.

It is possible, that a number of colloquial terms may not have been recollected by the author, if they were ever known to him. He therefore takes this opportunity of observing, that he shall esteem it a favour if any Gentleman will communicate to him any words which he may have omitted, and they shall be inserted in an Appendix.

The Bengalee alphabet being defective in one or two instances, such as the want of distinct characters to express b, v, and w, a dot has been inserted in the middle of the letter ব when it either has or should have the sound of v or w. It should, however, be observed, that in words derived from the Sungskrita, two or three excepted, it must be always pronounced as the English b. In words derived from the Arabic or Persian, it must as constantly be pronounced like the English w.

The Sungskrita root, or dhatoo, has been chosen for the radix of the verb; the reason for this, having been mentioned in the Bengalee Grammar, need not be repeated here. It must, however, be remarked, that when the verb has been corrupted from the Sungskrita, the most simple form thereof, or that which most resembles a dhatoo, has been chosen.

A list of the dhatoos, or Sungskrita roots, is prefixed to this volume, and those which are used as the foundation of words in the Bengalee language are distinguished by an asterisk.

It would be a mark of vanity and ignorance, to pretend, that there are no mistakes in this work. The writer is conscious, that, though he has done all which his present acquaintance with the language would enable him to do, the omissions and mistakes must still be numerous; and he again repeats, that every correction of these mistakes will be considered a favour.

W. CAREY.

DICTIONARY, &c.

ALMOST nine-tenths of the words in the Bengalee language are pure Sungskrita, or such as are evidently derived from that source; and as that language is almost entirely derived from certain radicals called dhatoos, it has been thought proper to begin this work with a complete list of them.

Certain letters, not belonging to the Sungskrita roots, are, in the following list, joined to them to point out some peculiarities in the conjugation of verbs in that language. These letters, called unoobundhas, are prefixed to, or follow the root, as it suits the convenience of the writer. In the manuscript copies of the Gunas or lists of Roots, they are joined by the rules of Sundhi; but as the Sundhi might occasion mistakes, and can answer no valuable end, it is omitted in the following list, and each unoobundha is expressed in its proper character, separated from the dhatoo by a dash.

OBSERVATIONS ON THE UNOOBUNDHAS.

THE unoobundha অ is put for the sake of easy pronunciation. This letter, being inherent in the preceding consonant, is not expressed by its proper sign অ.

আ. Dhatoos with this unoobundha admit the optional insertion of ইয় before the affixes ক and ক্তবতু, or their substitutes, viz. before the affixes of the passive, and past indefinite participle. See Sungskrita Grammar,* page 159, Rule 37.

ই. This letter denotes, that নুট must be inserted in the dhatoo. See page 144, Rule 53.

ঈ shews, that ইয় must not be inserted before the affixes ক and ক্তবতু of the passive and past indefinite participles. See page 159, Rule 36.

উ. Dhatoos with this characteristic letter admit the optional insertion of ইয় before the affix ক্ত্বাচ্. See page 156, Rule 4.

ঊ. Those dhatoos which have this unoobundha require the optional insertion of ইয় before the ব—ল্ of any tense except those called ৱ. See page 142, Rule 58.

ঋ. Dhatoos which have this unoobundha must not have their vowel short when অঙ্ is inserted. See page 462, Rule 12.

ৠ. This characteristic letter denotes, that the vowel of the dhatoo is optionally short or long when অঙ্ is affixed.

ঌ denotes, that ঈ must be inserted after the dhatoo in the লৃঙ্ tense. See page 148, Rule 86.

ৡ denotes, that the insertion of ঈ in the লৃঙ্ tense is optional. See page 148, Rule 86.

঎ denotes, that the dhatoo does not admit vriddhi when সি is inserted. See page 142, Rule 33.

ঐ. Dhatoos with this characteristic letter are of the class যজাদি. See page 144, Rule 51.

ও. This unoobundha denotes, that ন must be substituted for the ত of ক and ক্তবতু. See page 160, Rule 44.

ঔ. ইয় is not inserted before the terminations of those dhatoos which have this unoobundha. See page 142, Rule 37.

ক denotes, that the dhatoo is of the tenth conjugation (চুরাদি. See page 457, Rule 1.

কি. Dhatoos with this unoobundha are of the tenth conjugation, but may also be of the first, admitting both forms. See page 458, Rule 5.

গ denotes, that the dhatoo is of the ninth conjugation (ক্র্যাদি). See page 446, Rule 1.

* These references are made to the Grammar of the Sungskrita Language published by the author of this Dictionary.

Digitized by Google

ভি denotes, that these dhatoos are of the class called ভ্বাদি. See page 446, Rule 4.

ব. This letter denotes, that the dhatoo is of the class called কণ্ডাদি. See page 307, Rule 3.

আ denotes, that the dhatoo is to be conjugated in the atmane pada when the action is for the benefit of the agent, and in the parashmi pada when for the benefit of another. See page 132, Rule 16.

ঞি. This unoobandha denotes, that the passive participle in ক্ত is used to express present time. See page 572, Rule 7.

অ denotes, that the dhatoo belongs to the class called চুরাদি.

ইৎ. Dhatoos with this unoobandha admit the krit affix অথু. See page 602, Rule 115.

উ. Dhatoos which have this unoobandha admit the krit affix ণিচ্. See page 602, Rule 114.

ঋ denotes, that the dhatoo belongs to the class called তনাদি. See page 146, Rule 74.

ত denotes, that the dhatoo has a final অ.

ন shews, that the dhatoo is of the eighth conjugation (তনাদি). See page 438, Rule 1.

ঐ. Dhatoos with this characteristic letter are of the seventh conjugation (রুধাদি). See page 420, Rule 1.

ন denotes, that the dhatoo is of the fifth conjugation (স্বাদি). See page 400, Rule 1.

প denotes, that the dhatoo belongs to the class called যুচাদি. See page 511, Rule 9.

ভ indicates, that the dhatoo belongs to the class called শমাদি. See page 376, Rule 8.

ম shews, that the dhatoo belongs to the class ঘটাদি. See page 462, Rule 11.

বি denotes, that these dhatoos belong optionally to the class ঘটাদি.

য denotes, that the dhatoo is of the fourth conjugation (দিবাদি). See page 378, Rule 1.

ল indicates, that the dhatoo is of the second conjugation (অদাদি). See page 306, Rule 1.

লু shews, that the dhatoo belongs to the class called ঋদাদি. See page 144, Rule 52.

লি indicates, that the dhatoo belongs to the third conjugation (হুাদি). See page 358, Rule 1.

ব denotes, that the dhatoo belongs to the class called ভ্বাদি. See page 144, Rule 50.

শ. Dhatoos with this unoobandha are of the sixth conjugation (তুদাদি). See page 510, Rule 1.

ষি shews, that the dhatoo belongs to the class কুটাদি. See page 510, Rule 1.

ষ shews, that the krit affix ঙ may be affixed to these roots, and that the feminines are made by আপ্. See page 605, Rule 128.

ষ. Dhatoos with this unoobandha are peculiar to the Veda. The dhatoos কৃ, গৃ, দৃ, দৃ and পৃঙ্, are called কৃাদি.

The dhatoos যুহ্, ক্রহ্, ষ্ণুহ্, শস্ and ষিহ্, are the class যুহাদি.

Dhatoos with an unoobandha ঙ, and a final consonant, have a grave accent.

Dhatoos with an unoobandha ড and ঙ are of the class called ঘ্রুতাদি. See page 158, Rule 86, and page 173, Rule 29.

Dhatoos with one vowel, which have an initial consonant and a final ষ, do not admit the insertion of ইট্ except, however, খি, শ্রি, ডী, শী, ধূ, ক, ধূ, ষ্ণু, ক্ষ্ণু, ব্—ঙ, and ব্—অ.

The dhatoos are arranged in the alphabetical order of their final letters, except those in the last section, which is an appendix, consisting of roots mentioned in some grammatical rules, and on that account called Soutra (সৌত্র) dhatoos. Very few verbs are formed from those roots.

The explanation of the dhatoos is expressed in Sungskrita by a noun in the seventh case indicating that the root is used in that peculiar sense, this has been adhered to in the following list, but to avoid the perpetual repetition of "This root is used in the sense of" a dash is prefixed to the explanation, which is intended to indicate that the above phrase or something similar must be supplied. It must not be concluded from this that dhatoos are either nouns or verbs. The radical idea alone is intended to be conveyed.

Some of the dhatoos are variously written. All the different ways of writing them are included in the following list; on which account they often appear to be more than the number specified.

A

DICTIONARY, &c.

BENGALEE AND ENGLISH.

অ, The first letter in the Hindoo alphabet. It has usually the sound of the English short u in but, though sometimes the sound approaches that of o in God. When it is final it has the sound of the final a in America. This letter is inherent in every consonant, and must be sounded with it, unless its place be occupied by another vowel, by a consonant, or by the mark (্), which shews that the vowel is suppressed. In composition it gives the word it precedes a privative or negative meaning. অন্, is substituted for it when it precedes a vowel.

অই, ad. (from অদস্, that), yonder.

অইল, s. (from অল্ল s ur), the name of a shrub used in some places for tanning leather, (Cæsalpinia olæosperma.)
